Brief History

St. Xavier's was set up in 1860 by a Catholic Minority Religious Body, the Society of Jesus. It was affiliated to Calcutta University in 1862. Although emphasis is given to the educational and cultural needs of the minority community, admission is open to all irrespective of caste, creed and nationality.

The college had five different libraries before January, 2009 as (1) Arts & Science Lending Library, (2) B.Com. Lending Library, (3) Eco, Pol. Sc. & Sociology Lending Library (4) Arts & Science Reading Room (5) B.Com. Reading Room. All these five libraries were merged into one integrated corpus and started functioning as a centralized system since January 16, 2009. In 2015 it witnessed a relocation of the Central Library to a new place – a place having more safety and more space (1,423.55 sq. mts). It was shifted from the main building to the old hostel building inside the Park Street Campus.

Fr. Verstraeten Central Library of St. Xavier's College plays a pivotal role in the teaching-learning process of the College. It is the fulcrum of all academic activities of all UG, PG, Ph.D. courses and research studies. The Library has a rich collection of around 80,000+ books, old and rare books, valuable reference books, journals, educational CDs/DVDs and innumerable e-books, e-journals, and other resources for the use of its members.

Infrastructure

- Self-Circulation Kiosk: Central Library implemented Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) enabled kiosk. This latest technology is being used to automate book handling process including book circulation and inventory management.

- Anti-theft Gate Antenna: RFID technology helps to alert the library security staff in case of any unintentional activity of not following the proper procedure of book issue/return.

- Lending Counter: To expand the physical space of the central library a mezzanine floor has been built in the Lending Section of the library in 2017 which fetches a picturesque view of the Lending Section.

- Uniform Rack System: Library Service is under the purview of Service Sector. So to make the service qualitative physical appearance plays a vital role. Considering this, a uniform rack system has been installed in the library. Previously books were kept in shelves not uniform in design, now this is changed to a uniform rack system.

Facilities and Services

1. Library Catalogue Access through Web OPAC

Library operations are fully automated using open source software Koha (Ver:16.05) and an online catalogue for the entire holdings of books, CD/DVDs, Reports etc is accessible (24x7) within the library premises as well as outside the campus from the library website at www.sxccal.edu

How to use Web OPAC:

Go to College website (www.sxccal.edu) and click 'Libraries' then click 'Web OPAC' where user can find the single window search interface.

To start OPAC search, first select Fr. Verstraeten Central Library or any other branch library as per requirement from the drop down menu. Now users can search for their required document. The explanation of location indicators are shown below.

	Location Indicator	Section to which concerned book belongs to
1	R	Central Library Reading Room
2	ED	Department of Education
3	ED(R)	Dept. of Education Reading Room
4	EM	Electronic Material (CD-ROM / DVD-ROM)
5	EM(R)	Electronic Material (CD-ROM / DVD-ROM) Ref. Sec
6	BB	Book Bank

The class number denotes the subject area to which the concerned book belongs. The book number has two parts, the first part denotes first three alphabets of the author's surname, and the second part title indicator contain first three alphabets of the title of the book excluding article, i.e. (A), (An) and (The).

2. My Library

periodicals (both journals and magazines) are meant only for reading inside READING ROOM ONLY, and cannot be taken out.

18. Rare Documents

The library of the college holds a golden treasury of very old and rare documents due to donations of books to the library by the provincial governments and European missionaries during the last two centuries. The documentary heritage is continuously decaying with time towards extinction, which is our national cultural loss. There is an urgent need of proper conservation and preservation of documentary heritage of the college. A project on preservation and conservation of rare documents was undertaken by the college to prevent this loss with the full financial support from UNESCO; which was started on 12th December, 2006. The oldest collection dates back to AD 1632. To conclude the project, a set of 4 DVDs containing some of the digitized documents and rare painting was published.

Xavier's to reward library regulars

Park Street: Three undergraduate students of St Xavier's College will receive awards for putting in more library hours a day than anyone else in an unannounced contest that aims to incentivise the dying habit of reading and researching the old-fashioned way.

"The awards have been instituted to encourage our students to spend more time in the library," Father Dominic Savio, the principal of St Xavier's College (Autonomous), Calcutta, said on Tuesday.

Chandra Roy, a BCom student in the morning section, has been adjudged first for spending around seven hours a day in the college library. Chandra would attend lectures for five hours every working day and spend another seven hours on an average reading in the library.

Arghyamalya Biswas, a student of statistics, and Manali Mondal of the political science department finished second and third respectively with around six hours in the library every day. This is in addition to attending lectures for five hours, as is the norm at St Xavier's.

Teachers across institutions lament that students no longer want to spend time studying in libraries. The trend isn't different at St Xavier's, although academic standards remain high.

"Nowadays, very few people spend much time in the library. So, when we found these three students putting in hours in the library, we decided to reward them. Our intention is to encourage other students to do the same and regenerate interest in reading," the principal said.

The revamped library at St Xavier's remains open from 7am till 7pm on weekdays. At a certain time of day, the library is packed. But most students read there only for a while. "We want to generate the inclination among students to use the library facility as much as possible, just as these three students did," Father Savio said.

The project to revamp the library and make it more attractive to students was an extension of the initiative to rekindle interest in reading. A veteran librarian welcomed the decision by St Xavier's to introduce an incentive to read in the library as "a good move". But he said this needs to be complemented by other steps such as designing courses in a way that students are compelled to do library work.

"Students will not go to the libraries if they can manage without doing additional reading. Therefore, the curriculum should be such that they have to do library work. Faculty members must demand that this be done," said the expert, who has worked in libraries across reputable institutions such as Harvard, the State University of New York in Buffalo and the University of California, Santa Cruz.

There is library in the temple of learning, and learning has thrived more people than all the seas in history" said the famous American journalist Carl Hiaasen. In the era of social media and the internet, it is hard to imagine the importance of books, both old and new. And what can be said about a library that is a part of this memory? Though most college libraries have been digitized in today's world, they have still remained there, open for the service of old and new books. CT visits one such library of city colleges which have a huge collection of rare, old, rare and new books.
